is the arowed friend of the New York Sugar impor-ters and has, only been silenced in this city in the most important journal he has access to, by spiking his gens. He has two channels of communication with the public yet; one is a literary weekly in San Francisco, the other the Hawaiian Gazette. Verb. sap.

The foregoing article we find in the San Francisco Merchant of September 12th, which we publish in order to say, that there are two points in the article that seem to call for a reply. In the first place, we were not aware (as the Merchant supposes) that there "is a "little knot of jobbers (three) in this city

" (San Francisco) who are the avowed enemies " of the Islands' friends, the refiners, and also "the opponents of the treaty and the slan"derers of its operations." We very naturally inferred that there were at least two sides to the controversy between the New York sugar men and the refiners of San Francisco, and for that reason were willing that the relative merits of that controversy should be discussed between the parties to it. We profess to publish an independent journal, and to let everybody have a fair show in our columns, so long as they confine themselves to legitimate and temperate discussion, and therefore, permitted our San Francisco commercial correspondent to speak his mind on the questions involved between the New Yorkers and the refiners of San Francisco. We never did and never will think that any good cause can suffer from discussion, and cannot sympathize with any party or parties who would endeavor to stifle discussion by depriving them of a fair chance to ventilate themselves and their sentiments through the newspapers. It is a grand mis-take to suppose that any cause can be advanced by shutting the door rudely in the faces of persons who differ with them on any subject. That cause is not worth maintaining that will not bear the full light of day. So far as our correspondent is concerned we know he is perfectly competent to take care of himself on this sugar question or on any other he may deem worthy his attention, and therefore, we are content to leave him to take care of himself; but of one thing the Merchant may rest assured, and that is, that we cannot adopt its advice, gratuitously tendered, by closing our columns against any respectable gentleman who may think it a duty to take issue with the San Francisco sugar refiners, because we regard the matter in controversy as of public importance and therefore should be discussed for the public good. The Merchant is mistaken in supposing our correspondent to be an enemy of Hawaii, and the ally of New York sugar men. He is a Hawaiian, with all his sympathies in favor of the Reciprocity Treaty, in active opperation. On this subject the Merchant must guess again. We are free to add that we are not among those who feel excessively sensitive on the subject of the reciprocity treaty between the United States and the Hawaiian Government, because we know that that treaty cannot be affected by the misrepresentations of interested speculators either in New York or San Francisco : Hawaii will faithfully carry out all the stipulations of the treaty on her part, and therefore, she has no cause of fear. We trust that this explanation will satisfy the San Francisco Merchant so far as the HAWAIIAN GAZETTE is concerned, and more particularly when we assure the Morchant that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the utterances of our correspondents.

The culture of rice on these Islands by Chinese is in its infancy, and will be steadily increased until every available foot of land shall be tilled for ment; and yet we have a class of men in this mmunity who, if they had their will and the power, would expel the industrious plodding dinaman from the Islands, regardless of the fact that they are the men through whose industry, skill and thrift, the waste places are ing made productive, and the commerce of policy advocated by the men who find fault with the Chinese, simply because they are
